

Do you find yourself leaving a doctor appointment having forgotten to ask about something? We created this simple guide to help you start a discussion with your treatment team and help you manage your locally advanced (stage 3) non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC). Have additional questions not included on this list? Feel free to add your own notes in the space provided under each section. Be sure to print out this page and take it to your next appointment.

ABOUT STAGE 3 LUNG CANCER

- What should I know about stage 3 lung cancer?
- How will lung cancer affect my health? How should I keep track of these changes?
- Is there anything I can change in my day-to-day life that might help maintain my overall health?
- Is there any way to help reduce the risk of lung cancer progressing?

TREATING STAGE 3 LUNG CANCER

- Is surgery an option for me?
- What are the treatment options for my stage 3 lung cancer?
- What happens after chemoradiation therapy (CRT)?
- Will I receive chemoradiation therapy (CRT) as chemotherapy and then radiation? Or will I receive them together?
- After CRT, are there any other treatment options for stage 3 unresectable lung cancer?
- Are there other medical professionals I should add to my treatment team? If so, can you recommend any? (For example: a nutritionist, pulmonologist, palliative care specialist, or a social worker?)
- In addition to medication, what can I do to keep my lungs as healthy as possible?

APPOINTMENT FOLLOW-UP

- After this appointment, what are my next steps in getting treatment?
- When should I make my next appointment?
- What can I expect from my next appointment?
